Fibonacci Series Reflection

The activity about the Fibonacci series in which we take Fibonacci series and make squares in the measurements of the number in the series was a very interesting activity. I found it very interesting on how all the squares fit next to each other, making it a perfect spiral when you connect the opposite points of the square and that the space between two lines are steadily getting wider and wider. The sequence of the Fibonacci series was 1, 1, 2, 3, 5, 8, 13 and so on.

Science

Students working in groups to make posters on ozone layer.

We started with our new unit “People and planet”. Discussed how the life of people over time changed which directly influenced the climate.

Students also gained knowledge about global warming and greenhouse effect.

They created posters on reasons for ozone layer depletion and what we can do to protect it.

September 22nd is Michael Faraday's birthday. In his memory students shared his brilliant contributions to science.

CAS INITIATIVE.....Celebrating Grandparents' Day (7 Sept)

Grandmother and Grandfather are such special words

They are the loveliest we've ever heard

So on this grandparents' day, who can be dearer than these two?

So we'd like you to do something memorable for them.

- Gift them a rose/card
- Write a poem/letter
- Make a collage of their good times
- Write 50 good deeds of their and give it to them
- Make a video of themor any other thing that you can think of

Share it with your class on Monday
